UNITY announces 25 Under 25 Native Youth Leaders

Honorees will be recognized at UNITY's National Conference in Portland this month

MESA, Ariz. – United National Indian Tribal Youth (UNITY) has announced the latest cohort of 25 Under 25 Native Youth Leaders, which includes Siletz Tribal member Gabriel Jurado.

This esteemed recognition celebrates the exemplary achievements of young American Indian and Alaskan Native leaders who embody UNITY's core values and pursue holistic (spiritual, mental, physical and social) well-being in their lives.

Launched in 2014, this biennial initiative acknowledges the remarkable contributions of 25 outstanding youths under 25 in Indian Country. Its purpose is to:

- Recognize the accomplishments of Native young people, ages 14 to 24, who are dedicated to serving their communities and are active members of the National UNITY Council (youth council affiliates or individual members)
- Provide training and hands-on learning activities that will increase the participants' ability to serve their community
- Encourage rising Native leaders to aspire to greater levels of achievement
- Build a support network of "service to community" minded leaders that will grow with each year and further the UNITY mission of building a strong, unified and self-reliant Native America through greater youth involvement

"Our Native youth are passionate about enhancing their communities. The 25 Under 25 program by UNITY acknowledges their accomplishments and inspires them to continue their engagement while nurturing

American Indian College Fund launches 'Make Native Voices Heard' voting campaign

Campaign shares stories of why Native votes matter and how to register

DENVER – American Indians are more impacted by the law than any other group in the United States. Native students in higher education or seeking a higher education, in particular, are impacted by federal and state laws that impact funding for education, such as Pell Grants, student loans and federal funding for Tribal colleges and universities (TCUs), 70% of which comes from federal sources.

To ensure Native students, community members and their allies are represented and heard at all levels of government, the American Indian College Fund (College Fund) has launched its Make Native Voice Heard — Vote! campaign to encourage Native people to register and vote on Nov. 5.

In addition to ensuring Native voices are heard with regard to higher education, voting also gives Indigenous communities representation within laws and policies that guide Native nations, including housing, health care, early childhood education, energy programs and reservation

Siletz youth need our help!

Have you ever thought about being a foster parent?

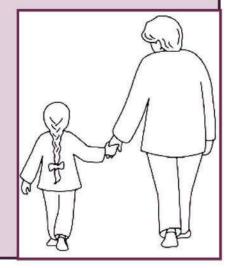

Do you want to volunteer your time to help foster youth? Siletz Tribal members around the state are needed to host foster children and also to volunteer to support struggling Tribal families.

Our team at ICW is working to build a network of volunteers so we can keep foster kids close to their parents and culture, and build lasting relationships with other Tribal members.

New Salem Area Office Supervisor

My name is Sarah Ellisor. I have an associate degree in psychology and a bachelor's degree in business management.

Over the last 26 years, my journey has always been helping others. In 1998 with the adult education fund from our Tribe, I was able to get my CNA certification and work for Salem Hospital. In 2000, I moved to Portland and worked Providence Milwaukie Hospital for 19 years. During that time, I was able to further my education with the help of the education grant, which opened up more doors in my career. My last position at Providence was managing the Outpatient Infusion Clinic and the Direct Access Colonoscopy Program.

During the pandemic, I was given an employment opportunity with NARA NW from a CDC grant given to the Oregon Health Authority to help raise awareness for colorectal cancer screenings in American Indians/Alaska Natives. I coordinated the CRC Control Program and was part of the Chronic Disease Team, where we helped clients get their preventative services while addressing their barriers to care. We would get them food, clothes, transportation, help with housing and whatever else they needed.

I have given presentations to the Portland Indian Health Board, Tribes in Oregon and Washington, OHA, OHSU Research Network Collaborative, and the Kaiser Research Center on the different needs of Native communities. I was given the opportunity from Kaiser Permanente to help make an educational visual story pamphlet for American Indians on colorectal cancer screenings. In 2023, I received an award from the Western Colorectal Cancer Consortium for my work with Native communities on CRC awareness and addressing barriers that each community has in both Oregon and Washington.

On a personal note, I am a mother of four young men. I moved back to Salem last year from Portland so I could be closer to my parents and other family. I just recently found out I'm going to be a grandmother for the first time in October. It's a girl and I am so excited.

My hobbies include crafting, painting, playing games, gardening, cooking and learning new things. I got my master food preserver certification from OSU because I wanted to learn how to preserve the foods I have grown so I can have them all year long.

Feel free to reach out to me anytime if there is anything else you would like to know.

Patient Financial Navigator

Supporting Your Health Care Financial Wellness

Are you confused, frustrated and lost in the maze called health care? Patients are often unaware of the many changes with their insurance, government programs, employer's coverage and all the "rules" associated with getting health care services paid.

It's not easy to navigate health care, but help is available!

- Have you lost coverage or have no coverage?
- Are you receiving past due bills? Collection agency contacting you?
- Are you turning 65 in the next year and need to enroll in Medicare?
- You decided not to enroll in Medicare and are now facing penalties?
- You want to be sure your care is covered and how much it will cost?

These are a few examples of where a patient financial navigator can help. They are certified by the State of Oregon to provide Oregon Health Plan and Federal Marketplace counseling and enrollment assistance. Help is confidential, nonjudgemental and individualized to you and your family.

Dedicated to the health and well-being of the members of the Contederated Tribes of the Siletz Indians and the local community.

What is our story and our path? Are we listening to the earth and what she needs?

By Nancy Ludwig, MS, RDN, LD, Siletz Tribal Head Start Nutritionist

As part of my role as a consultant nutritionist to Siletz Tribal Head Start, I offer information for families and the community. This month my focus is on the power of story as we evolve on this planet.

Our world is heating up. It appears that Mother Earth is struggling. Perhaps she is reaching the end of a cycle to die and to be reborn. What is our part in this story and in this cycle?

Throughout the ages, the original peoples of earth have carried prophecy and instruction for these times.

I recently watched a video call with Leah Lamb interviewing Jyoti Ma (Jeneane Prevatt, Ph.D.) about Earth Stories: Myths and Prophesies. Jyoti Ma is an internationally renowned spiritual teacher who has cultivated projects that demonstrate ways of life that honor the earth and all peoples.

As the grandmother vision keeper of the Center for Sacred Studies, she co-founded Kayumari with spiritual communities both in America and Europe. Other projects she has helped to convene are the International Council of Thirteen Indigenous Grandmothers and the Unity Concert.

She is the founder of The Fountain. Its mission is to restore an economic model based on reciprocity and collaboration guided by nature and the sacred. Currently as a delegate of the Mother Earth Delegation of United Indigenous Nations, a collaboration with The Fountain has grown, creating a global movement for and with the earth that is ready to activate the New Day.

Stories are used in many different ways. Sacred storytellers generally have a message to share. Story has a way of bypassing the mind to reach our hearts and shape our consciousness.

In a medical setting, our health history can be considered as our story or our narrative. People can use the term story to mean something we tell ourselves that may or may not be true. Sometimes it is suggested that we "change our story." Stories instruct us. There are codes in stories told by elders.

Prophecy is a live story with an intelligence of its own that prepares us. Stories are not literal; they are spoken with symbol and metaphor, etc. Story often offers a way to see what is possible.

Apocalypse, or the end of the world, is also seen as a lifting of the veils according to Michael Mead. To prevent our stories from being highjacked and used against us, we must listen deeply for new opportunities and new ways. It is time to brighten up in this moment of truth.

Apparently from what I have learned from many sources around the Eagle Condor Prophecy, we are in a great cleanse as an earth cycle ending falls into a beginning around 2026. Earth travels through 26,000-year cycles as she expands and continues to develop her own evolutionary consciousness. We are finishing up a cycle and this is to be earth's sixth extinction.

Jyoti Ma explained that this time, human beings are part of the "choicing moment" to enter into this next 26,000-year cycle. In order to unify us, we can step away from blame about what went wrong as this divides us.

She stated that according to prophecies of many nations (Indigenous and spiritual paths), earth has moved through the lower chakras and we are moving into heart. We have been told to get ready for this moment of climate change with tornados, volcanoes, earthquakes, etc. "The mother is in movement," as the elders say. I was moved as she asked if we can we say yes to her.

Every single one of us has a cord of understanding from our own family lineage and our own personal work that we have come to stand with in this moment. We are encouraged to light ourselves up, as light and bright as we can – in the middle of our family, our community, our village. To light ourselves fully so that radiance can mingle with who we really are. This is our story. I ask, "What does this mean? I wonder how we step fully into our stories."

Colonization was the movement that marginalized Indigenous populations and cut us off from nature – our access to receive instruction. The colonizers were takers with an attitude of extraction from nature. In other words, what we could take or get, rather than receive. This economy did not work and brought us to this global crisis.

Now is our time to listen more than ever to the earth and what she needs. As we restore and heal our relationship with Mother Earth, she is pleading for us to "change our ways." It is time to surrender to the mother. Not give up, but to listen.

Life is in motion, expanding and growing itself. What is our part? What do we need to cultivate individually – or as a collective? How do we shine our light and turn the table of economy upright where we are all sacred and valued?

How do we align with nature? How do we practice and what is our impact on earth? How do we balance giving and receiving? What is the importance of our light and what we bring to this pivotal time?

In Jyoti Ma's telling of the "Blue Bonnet," she called it a story of our times. This is a story of drought where a rainmaker came to help a village. He created a bonfire and asked all to sit with themselves, consider what was their most precious item and then put it into the fire so the rains would come. Much detail was shared in story form, of course.

In the end, the story focused on a small child who was clinging to her most precious doll. Her mom and dad had died several years earlier and the last thing they had given her was this doll, who wore a blue bonnet. She felt her parents were in this doll and she connected with them through this doll.

After rocking the doll all night while wondering what to do, she realized she needed to give her most precious doll to the fire. The fire was calling for it. With tears rolling down her cheeks, she walked with intention and love for her people and the earth. She said her last goodbye to this precious doll and placed her in the fire. Then she went back home to sleep. She awoke to cheering and rain. Then she saw there were blue bonnets everywhere, as far as the eyes could see.

This is the choice we are in right now! How will we feed this story?

My role in my writing is about health and nutrition as a community concern with cultural relevance. Perhaps I'm deviating a bit far by venturing into story. After all, blue bonnets in this story are symbolic.

I do not recommend them for consumption as they are toxic when consumed in large quantities. They do have a place in our environment for beauty, however, and they are ecological powerhouses. As legumes, they are soil enrichers, grabbing and fixing nitrogen into the soil to support the plants that follow. Pollinators love them too.

Now is the time for listening to Mother Earth and responding in our transformation and our health. With colonization, many of us have lost our connection with nature. Earth carries our story. As for food and our nourishment, it seems logical that we align with nature vs. fighting her as we bring our attention, our light and our gifts to support Mother Earth.

Without her, we are lost. May we bring this alignment to our food sources and practices.

Please know that Siletz Tribal Head Start offers nutritional support at no cost to Head Start families. This usually occurs over the telephone. If you have nutrition concerns about your Head Start child or want to discuss family nutrition concerns, please contact your teacher or the director and ask to speak to the nutritionist. We want to support your children and families.

Carrot Cake Roll with Cream Cheese Filling

Carrot cake:

3 large eggs 2/3 cup sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

2 tablespoons vegetable oil

3/4 cup cake flour

1/2 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon baking powder

1 teaspoon ground ginger

1/4 teaspoon nutmeg (optional)

2 teaspoons cinnamon

2 cups shredded carrots (drained if they are too wet)

Powdered sugar for rolling

Cream cheese filling:

4 tablespoons unsalted butter at room temperature

6 ounces cream cheese at room temperature 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

2 cups powdered sugar

Cake roll:

- 1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Generously spray a 10x15-inch jelly roll pan with cooking spray and line with parchment paper. Spray paper with cooking spray and lightly flour it. Set aside.
- 2. Beat eggs on high for 3 minutes. Add sugar and beat for 3-4 minutes on high until pale and frothy. Add vanilla extract and oil, mix to combine.
- 3. In a separate bowl combine flour, salt, baking powder, ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon. Stir dry ingredients into wet ingredients, just until combined. Do not over-mix. Stir in carrots.
- 4. Transfer mixture into prepared pan, spread it using a spatula. Bake for 15-16 minutes until done but still soft.
- While carrot cake is baking, line a clean kitchen towel and sprinkle a generous amount of powdered sugar over it.
- 6. When cake is finished baking, take it out of the oven and quickly turn it over onto the kitchen towel sprinkled with powdered sugar.

7. Starting at the short end, roll the cake with the towel. Let it cool completely for a few hours.

Frosting:

- 1. While cake is cooling, make the frosting.
- 2. In the bowl of a stand mixer with paddle attachment, beat butter and cheese until smooth. Add vanilla then powdered sugar and beat until smooth.

To assemble:

- 1. When cake is completely cool, carefully unroll it. Spread cream cheese frosting evenly and roll tightly. Chill cake roll for 1 hour so it firms up a little.
- 2. Dust the top with powdered sugar. Slice and enjoy!

Youth Basket Workshop a success

Siletz youth who attended the Youth Basket Workshop hosted by the Culture Department recently had an opportunity weave a small medicine basket using all traditional materials. Under the guidance of special guest instructor Chantele Rilatos, students learned the process from start to finish, with some even completing more than one basket during the four-day workshop.

Fire extinguishers

Fire extinguishers play a vital role in any fire protection plan in any environment. They are a first aid response to fire and can help prevent catastrophic damage to property and even loss of life.

In approximately 80% of all fire incidents, a simple portable fire extinguisher is all that is needed to put out the fire. Studies have also shown that 60% of fires go un-notified. This means that the fire is not severe and can be handled easily with a fire extinguisher.

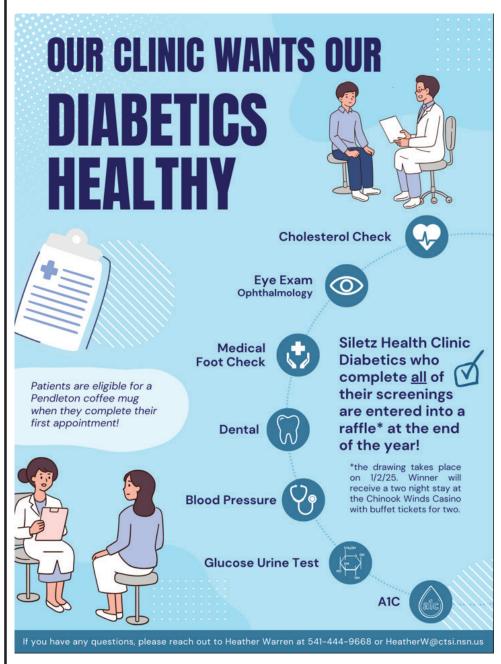

Fire safety experts advise that you attempt to extinguish a fire only if you have first made sure that everyone else has left or is leaving the building, and that someone has called the fire department. Remember, lives are more important than property.

Can fire extinguishers be recycled?

Not only is it possible to recycle fire extinguishers, it's more responsible. To make safe disposal of fire extinguishers simpler, it's best left to professionals – those trained in the correct handling, storing, emptying, disposing and recycling of units. For more information, please visit https://csafire.com/fire-extinguisher-disposal/

ABC's of Siletz Tribal Athletes

By Tiffany Stuart

The journey of Siletz Tribal athletes started in 2020. I wanted to write a story that my son and Tribal youth would be interested in reading.

I interviewed 24 people and researched the other athletes in this book. I conducted all the interviews over the phone during the pandemic. These pages are just a glimpse into the lives of Tribal people. I hope to put all the interviews together in another collection for our Tribal museum.

I completed this work in my own free time. I have a list of more Tribal athletes to interview when time allows. If you have a Siletz Tribal athlete you think should be in this collection, please email me at siletztiffanydawn@gmail.com.

Thank you to everyone who has helped with this book. In the upcoming months, you can enjoy reading these stories in our Siletz News.

JUMP for the ball like Savanna

While attending Brown University, Savanna played on the rugby team. Her leadership skills showed on and off the field. Savanna was Miss Siletz, UNITY Top 25 Under 25, and she grew up in Siletz playing sports as a child. She graduated from Toledo High School in 2016. Recently in life, she is working in schools as a cultural resource facilitator for the Native American program. She enjoys spending time with her son and Native American pow-wows.

Stanley was known as a scrappy boxer. Local newspapers noted that Stanley as a heavyweight boxer would knock his opponents unconscious in the second round.

Donald was an amateur boxer and trainer. During his 10-year service in the Marines, he boxed and trained boxers for the Olympics. He played sports at Siletz High School. He attended Oregon State University and later became a building contractor.

New four-gallery exhibition in Newport celebrates emerging Indigenous artists

NEWPORT, Ore. – Oregon Coast Council for the Arts has announced an extraordinary exhibition coming to Nye Beach this summer. Where Waters Meet – celebrating the next generation of Indigenous creators – is on display June 1 to July 28 at the Newport Visual Arts Center (VAC) and in the Olive Street Gallery Newport Performing Arts Center (PAC), curated by Leonard D. Harmon.

Honoring heritage while establishing new paths of contemporary expression, five talented artists from diverse backgrounds and Tribes present their work throughout four galleries and two separate buildings, showcasing photography, videography, installation, painting, sculpture and basketry.

In the VAC's Runyan Gallery, Leonard D. Harmon (Lenape/Nanticoke) and Leland Butler (Grand Ronde/Siletz/Yurok) present their collaborative contemporary exhibit, Walking on Eggshells. The show features photography, film, sculpture and installation components.

Harmon, a contemporary mixedmedia artist, comes from a long line of creators and craftsmen. While he draws inspiration from his ancestors and Tribe, he is primarily self-taught. His inaugural solo exhibition took place in the VAC's upstairs gallery in April and May 2023.

Curiosity about self, land and people led Butler to photography a decade ago. His sophisticated and often mysterious compositions explore the duality of light and shadow.

Booker Bartow (Wiyot) will present his bold and eclectic debut exhibit – South Beach Salamander – in the VAC's Upstairs Gallery. Son of celebrated artist Rick Bartow, Booker's early years were filled with music, art and long days spent searching for frogs and salamanders in the wetlands near his home.

While much of his adult life has been devoted to skateboarding and sharing his love of the sport through videography, he has recently rediscovered his love for visual art. His work is a reflection of the joy he finds in mixing mediums, experimenting and approaching the process with a sense of innocence that comes from working with no rules or self-judgment.

The intricate and beautiful basketry of traditional weaver Chantele Rilatos (Siletz) will be on display in the COVAS Showcase at the VAC. Using varied plant materials native to her homelands, Rilatos creates beautiful woven works representing the land and her ancestors.

"Being a basketweaver connects me to my ancestors and homelands," said Rilatos. "It is a sacred practice I look forward to having a lifelong relationship with."

And at Olive Street Gallery, located inside the PAC, Memories at Night will be on display through Aug. 25, featuring the bold and exciting large-scale work of multidisciplinary artist Isabella Saavedra (Pit River Tribe).

Saavedra's work depicts introspective accounts of significant moments ranging from person to viral scale, a subject she refers to as her "Now-isms." Her work is informed by queerness, radical vulnerability and philosophies of visual sovereignty.

"Some nights, the realms of the spirit world, dream world and the real world exist simultaneously," said Saavedra. "And at these times, one can commune with one's self, memories and previous versions of themself and consult with spirit guides. This is also the time I most often find myself painting."

An opening reception for all four exhibits will take place at both locations (VAC and PAC) on Saturday, June 1, from 12-5 p.m. Artist talks begin at 1 p.m. Admission is free, light refreshments will be served and DJ True Justice will provide entertainment.

From 2:30-3:30 p.m., the public is invited to join in a leisure-focused arts engagement experience at the Olive Street Gallery (at the PAC). The space will be temporarily transformed into a reading room and attendees can peruse related art books and converse with one another and the artist.

To learn more about Where Waters Meet and each of the individual exhibits, please visit www.coastarts.org/wwm.

Exhibits at the VAC are free to the public and can be viewed most Wednesdays through Sundays from 12-4 p.m., at 777 NW Beach Drive in Newport. Exhibits at the Olive Street Gallery (at the PAC) can be viewed Tuesdays through Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and/or starting one hour before ticketed events.

New Tribal hunting seasons go into effect

The Tribe will implement new deer, elk and bear hunting seasons this year.

Tribal members who obtain a Tribal license and tag from the Tribal Natural Resources Department will be able to hunt for deer and elk from Aug. 1 through Dec. 31. Certain weapon and bag limits will apply during different parts of the season, but one tag will cover the entire time period. Bear season begins June 3 and runs to the end of the year.

All the details can be found in the Siletz Hunting, Fishing, Trapping and Gathering Plan on the Tribe's website under the Services & Programs/Natural Resources/Fish & Wildlife tab.

Questions can be directed to Tribal Natural Resources Director Mike Kennedy at 541-444-8232.

J3 Group, Tribe complete first-of-its-kind research study in First Peoples community

By Chucri (Chuck) Kardous

Siletz Tribal members John Johnson (Tribal elder) and son Shawn Johnson, J3 group LLC, were in Siletz in early April to perform a Personal Attenuation Rating (PAR) fit testing study for their hearing protector device – Sert-A-Plug (SAP) – that fits foam earplugs directly into the user's ear canals. Siletz Tribal members participated in the PAR study.

Individual fit-testing of hearing protectors is a recommended best practice by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the National Hearing Conservation Association. In November 2023, fit testing of hearing protectors became a Department of Defense mandatory requirement for all service members and ancillary components.

J3 Group invited me (an acoustical engineer with 30 years' experience as a hearing loss research scientist with NIOSH) to join their team alongside Dr. John Takacs, a well-established Portland-based doctor of osteopathic medicine. Together their team conducted the hearing protection fit testing study to evaluate the effectiveness of the patented SAP insertion tool in collaboration with Miranda Williams, executive health director of the Siletz Community Health Clinic.

J3 Group is proud that this pilot research study is the first of its kind to be conducted in a First Peoples community. It was vitally important to recruit Tribal members who could participate in our study on Tribal lands and in Tribal facilities to help prove or disapprove SAP's effectiveness.

Preliminary data results suggest that this pilot research study was a huge success in proving SAP's overall effectiveness compared to traditional methods of earplug insertions.

The study aimed to examine the difference in the PAR between regularly and fit-tested earplugs and those inserted using the SAP tool to document its effectiveness analytically and based on real-world data.

The study examined the hearing and the personal attenuation rating of 30 Siletz Tribal members (ages 18-64; 21 women and nine men) using the FitCheck SoloTM system. Most participants had in the past been exposed to recreational noise (loud music, shooting firearms, motorcycles, power tools, etc.) and some had on-the-job noise exposure.

Everyone was asked to sign an informed consent form before the beginning of the study. Preliminary results showed that the SAP tool achieved 83% improvement on naïve-fitted earplugs and an almost 19% improvement on those who had been properly trained fit-tested individuals.

Participants were asked to provide feedback upon completion of the study and every participant who responded indicated a positive experience with increased awareness about the proper fitting of earplugs and the importance of hearing protection. They also indicated a willingness to participate in follow-up J3 Group research studies.

Overall, the PAR study was well-executed and would not have been possible without the support of the members of the Siletz Tribal community and Williams' oversight. Plans are under way to present the findings from this study at national hearing conferences and to submit a manuscript for publication to a scientific journal (such as the International Journal of Audiology or the Journal of Occupational and Environmental Hygiene).

J3 would like to thank all of the PAR study participants for their patience, the fun and laughs, and to remind them that they are encouraged to participate in future SAP studies. We also wish to thank the Siletz Tribal Council for approving our proposal and for allowing the use of Tribal facilities to execute the PAR study. Special thanks go to Williams for taking on this extra duty on very short notice and for expertly coordinating all aspects of this endeavor. You are a star!

John Johnson is a member of the National Occupational Research Agenda (NORA) Council. NORA is a NIOSH subagency that sets the occupational safety and health agenda for the Nation.

He sits on two NORA committee groups - Fit Testing, Hearing Protection Devices; and Hazard Awareness, Noise & Ototoxins.

General Welfare Exclusion Housing Rehabilitation Program

Formerly Over-Income Rehabilitation Grant

The Over-Income Rehabilitation Construction program funds over-income families with a $10,000 grant for construction rehabilitation on the primary residence they own.

The over-income grant is for eligible applicants and is limited to one grant per person/address/household. If you have already received a General Welfare Exclusion Housing Rehabilitation Grant, you are not eligible to apply.

If you have received services through the following programs, you are not eligible to apply for the General Welfare Exclusion Housing Rehabilitation Grant for five years: NAHASDA Rehabilitation Program, NAHASDA Elders Replacement Program, NAHASDA Rehabilitation Program for Elder Tribal Members, NAHASDA Rehabilitation Program for Disabled Tribal Members, and HIP Program.

Rehabilitation refers to repairs or renovations to the home, but does not include appliances, saunas, hot tubs, swimming pools, driveways, fences, etc.

Over-income refers to Tribal members whose income exceeds the income limits set by the Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act (NAHASDA). These are listed below:

Base 4 $54,768 $62,592 $70,416 $78,240 $84,499 $90,758 $97,018 $103,277

Applications, including proof of current annual income, enrollment and proof of homeownership with the Tribal member's name on it, must be submitted to the Housing office by Wednesday; July 31, 2024, at 4:30 p.m. Applications received after that date and time will not be accepted by the Siletz Tribal Housing Department.

Qualified applicants will be placed in the lottery drawing, which will be held during August on a date approved by the Tribal Council.

If you would like an application or have any questions, please call Jeanette Mason at 800-922-1399, ext. 1316, or 541-444-8316; or email jeanettem@ctsi.nsn.us.

PRC process for getting hearing aids

Purchased/Referred Care (PRC) has collaborated with Costco Hearing Aid Centers to purchase hearing aids for Siletz Tribal members regardless of where the referral is made for a hearing evaluation. Purchasing hearings aids at Costco will stretch PRC funding, allowing for more services that will benefit you and all Siletz Tribal members. Once you have your hearing evaluation and referral for hearing aids, you'll need to make a request for the Gatekeeping Review Committee to approve the first pair. Once approved, you will be sent an approval letter and a copy of the protocol for purchasing hearing aids, which can be purchased every three years. Contact PRC at 541-444-9677 for more information.

infrastructure. With other critical issues, such as the high rate of Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, environmental protections and economic development in the balance, Native voices need to be heard at every level of government.

One hundred years ago on June 2, the U.S. government unilaterally extended U.S. citizenship to American Indians with the passage of the Indian Citizenship Act. As dual citizens of their Tribal nations and the United States, members of federally recognized Tribes have the right to register and participate in both non-Tribal (federal, state and local) elections and Tribal elections to decide who should represent them.

"Native people were often deterred from exercising that right and continually litigated for that right to be honored. Only in 1958, 38 years after the Indian Citizenship Act, did Native voters participate in elections in all 50 states," said Cheryl Crazy Bull, president and CEO of the College Fund. "By voting in Tribal, local, state and national elections, Native people exercise their legal right to vote and honor the ancestors that fought for it, while ensuring we have a say in our futures as Native people and sovereign nations."

To make Native voices heard and exercise the right to vote, every Native citizen must register to do so in their state of permanent residence. The College Fund's Make Native Voices Heard webpage shares information on how to register to vote in every state at https://collegefund. org/vote/register/.

As part of the campaign, the College Fund will also share information about how to make a voting plan and how voting impacts Native communities in big ways. Native students; Tribal college presidents, faculty and staff; and others are also invited to share their reasons for voting and voting plans in blogs and videos at https://collegefund.org/vote/.

The College Fund also offers $500 awards to TCU students who are leading voter education events.

For more information on how to submit a blog or video, grants for voter education events and to follow the campaign, visit https://collegefund.org/vote/ or follow the College Fund on Facebook at American Indian College Fund and Native Pathways. The campaign will run through early November.

About the College Fund

The American Indian College Fund has been the nation's largest charity supporting Native higher education for 34 years. It believes "Education is the answer" and provided $17.4 million in scholarships and other direct student support to American Indian students in 2022-23.

Since its founding in 1989, the College Fund has provided more than $319 million in scholarships, programs, community and Tribal college support.

It also supports a variety of academic and support programs at the nation's 35 accredited Tribal colleges and universities, which are located on or near Indian reservations, ensuring students have the tools to graduate and succeed in their careers.

The College Fund consistently receives top ratings from independent charity evaluators and is one of the nation's top 100 charities named to the Better Business Bureau's Wise Giving Alliance.

To the editor:

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the Education Department for hosting the Family Literacy Nights. My son and I have had so much fun attending the events. There was always good food and even better company at each event.

We appreciate how much time and effort went into planning and executing each event. These events created a sense of community while fostering literacyfocused activities. They were wonderful evenings spent with Tribal families.

I have seen my son's literacy grow because of the books and games we were gifted at each event. He's now reading sight words from one of the games we were able to take home. I love that the Education Department has made these events family-friendly and all ages are welcome.

Thank you to the Culture Department for the last literacy night. We had lots of fun learning our language and playing games around our language.

Thank you to both Education/Culture Department staff for allowing us to create such wonderful memories.

Many thanks,

Misty Moceikis and Malachi Lou

To the editor:

I am a concerned Siletz Tribal elder trying to make ends meet!

I do appreciate the $100 stipend, however nowadays it does not go far in this day and age. I get to feeling bad, especially when I hear that the Grand Ronde Tribe gives $1,300 a month to their elders.

Maybe we could cut down on some of the money we give to all the charities and give more to our own people. I see all the money going to all the charities; I can't understand why so much to those and so less to Tribal elders. Something should be addressed about this situation.

Students at Siletz Tribal Head Start in Salem learn about metamorphosis during their Insect and Bug Study. They read books, sang songs about the butterfly life cycle, made their own caterpillars and chrysalis, and waited for them to hatch into butterflies. They also observed and documented the changes of real caterpillars over time and helped release them into the field.

Chair Dee Pigsley Confederated Tribes of the Siletz Indians P.O. Box 549 Siletz, OR 97380

Dear Chair Pigsley and Members of the Tribal Council,

I am writing to extend my deepest gratitude to you and the CTSI staff for the warm welcome and enriching experience you provided my team and I during our visit on March 28, 2024. It was an honor to be on the ancestral lands of the Siletz people and to learn more about the rich history, vibrant culture, and significant contributions of your Tribe. I was particularly impressed by the passion and commitment displayed by everyone I met during my visit, which speaks volumes about the strong leadership and sense of community within the Tribe.

It was a pleasure to learn about the incredible projects you are spearheading. Your work not only enriches your community but also serves as a model of community economic development and environmental stewardship. These values are commendable. They represent a model of resilience and innovation that we can all aspire to emulate.

The conversations we had deepened my understanding and appreciation of the unique challenges and opportunities facing your community. My administration is committed to fostering a working relationship based on mutual respect, understanding, and cooperation in order to achieve our shared goals of prosperity, health, sustainability, and cultural preservation. I look forward to continuing the strong and productive relationship between the State of Oregon and the Confederated Tribes of the Siletz Indians, which is rooted in respect of your Tribe's sovereignty.

Please extend my gratitude to the tribal members and CTSI departmental leadership who took the time to share their knowledge, stories, dances, and hospitality.

Thank you again for your gracious invitation and for making our visit such a memorable experience. I hope to visit again soon and continue our conversations on how we can work together for the betterment of our communities
